QUESTION OF JURISDICTION

WILL DECIDE WHERE BUSHMAN MURDER TRIAL WILL BE.

Planned in Adams Co.—Body Found in Dauphin Co., but Killing May Have Been in Cumberland Co.

Clarence J. Collins and Charles C. Reinecker, both 18 years old, have been arrested for the murder of Geo. J. Bushman and have confessed to their crime.

According to the statements and confessions of both youthful murderers, which agreed in almost every particular, Reinecker fired both of the shots into Bushman's body.

According to their confession, it was about 8 o'clock in the evening of Wednesday, October 16, when Bushman was in the act of running his car into his garage for the night that Collins and Reinecker approached and asked him what he would charge to take them to Carlisle. Bushman agreed to make the trip for $12 and the boys paid $5, they say, before they got into the car, promising to pay the balance before they left Carlisle on the return trip back to Gettysburg. The arrangement of payment seemed to suit Bushman for he drove them to Carlisle and parked the car in front of the Y. M. C. A. of that town.

Shortly after 11 o'clock they told Bushman that they were ready to drive back to Gettysburg. Bushman failed to remind them of their promise to pay the $7 balance before they started on their way back to Gettysburg.

Collins said that he sat beside Bushman in the front seat and Reinecker sat in the rear.

After they had passed Mt. Holly, Reinecker said that he drew his revolver, a .38-caliber, and shot Bushman in the back of the head. Bushman, who had been driving very slowly, dropped forward over the steering wheel, when Collins jammed on the brakes and stopped the car. The two boys then lifted Bushman's body from the front seat and deposited his inert form in the tonneau.

Bearing in mind that dead men tell no tales, Reinecker said that he wanted to make doubly sure, so he shot Bushman again, this time in the right breast. The shot was fired at such close range that the victim's overcoat was burned around the hole where the bullet entered.

Premeditated robbery apparently being the motive that prompted these two youthful murderers, from their confession, Reinecker said that directly after he fired the last bullet into Bushman's body, he searched the victim's clothing carefully for money, but succeeded in finding only the $5 they had given Bushman before leaving Gettysburg and about eighty cents in small change. Reinecker and Collins both said that they could not understand how they happened to overlook the $25 that was found in Bushman's pocket when his dead body was found, where they had hidden it in the bushes on the river bank at Lucknow.

After searching Bushman and extracting the $5.80 from his pockets, Reinecker said that he got in the front seat with Collins and Collins started the car and drove toward Gettysburg, but within about two miles of Idaville, he turned the car around and they went back to Carlisle. Collins discovered that they were very short on "gas" and when they arrived in Carlisle they spent nearly all of the $5.80 for gasoline.

Collins said that as soon as they purchased the gasoline, they went to Harrisburg and drove up the River road, arriving about 2 o'clock Thursday morning, searching for a convenient place to hide the body of their victim. About a quarter of a mile north of the old Country Club lane at Lucknow they stopped their car, and according to both Collins and Reinecker they wrapped an automobile robe about Bushman's body and carried it down to the river bank and deposited it in the bushes.

Reinecker, on being questioned what he had done with the revolver which he had used to kill Bushman, answered that he threw it in the river when they were crossing the bridge over the Susquehanna on their way to Harrisburg.

Directly after hiding the body in the bushes, Collins said that they drove the car up the River road a mile before they turned around and drove back. According to both Collins and Reinecker, they then concluded to drive to Philadelphia. They said that they again crossed the bridge and drove to York, but stopped there but a few minutes and went on their way to Philadelphia.

Collins in his confession said: "When we got to Philadelphia, I agreed to sell the car. I went alone to Corson's saleroom and garage on Broad street, and made arrangements to have them sell the car for us. When they asked my name, I gave them the name of George J. Sherman and my address as 22 Carlisle street, Gettysburg. The man to whom I turned the car over, told me to return the following day but I lost my nerve."

Reinecker said that he returned to Gettysburg late Thursday night and Collins said that he went back to Gettysburg Friday. A day or two after his return, Reinecker said that he went back to work in Reichle's butcher shop, where he was working (Continued on page 5.)

A DEMOCRATIC CONGRESS

WILL GIVE PRESIDENT WILSON WHAT HE ASKS FOR.

Get Back of the President and the Nation and Show Germany that the Country is Back of Him.

President Wilson has addressed the following appeal to the nation: "My Fellow Countrymen:

"The Congressional elections are at hand. They occur in the most critical period of our country has ever faced or is likely to face in our time. If you have approved of my leadership and wish me to continue to be your unembarrassed spokesman in affairs at home and abroad, I earnestly beg that you will express unmistakably to that effect by returning a Democratic majority to both the Senate and the House of Representatives.

"I am your servant and will accept your judgment without cavil, but my power to administer the great trust assigned me by the Constitution would be seriously impaired should your judgment be adverse and I must frankly tell you so because so many critical issues depend upon your verdict. No scruple of taste must in grim times like these be allowed to stand in the way of speaking the plain truth.

"I have no thought of suggesting that any political party is paramount in matters of patriotism. I feel too keenly the sacrifices which have been made in this war by all our citizens irrespective of party affiliations, to harbor such an idea. I mean only that the difficulties and delicacies of our present task are of a sort that make it imperatively necessary that the Nation should give its undivided support to the Government under a united leadership and that a Republican Congress would divide the leadership.

"The leaders of the minority in the present Congress have unquestionably been pro-war but they have been anti-administration. At almost every turn since we entered the war they have sought to take the choice of policy and the conduct of the war out of my hands and put it under control of instrumentalities of their own choosing. This is no time for divided counsel or for divided leadership. Unity of command is as necessary now in civil actions as it is upon the field of battle. If the control of the House and Senate should be taken away from the party now in power, an opposing majority could assume control of legislation and oblige all action to be taken amid contest and obstruction.

"The return of a Republican majority to either House of Congress, would, however, certainly be interpreted on the other side of the water as a repudiation of my leadership. Spokesmen of the Republican party are urging you to elect a Republican Congress in order to back up and support the President, but even if they should in this way impose upon some credulous voters on this side of the water, they should impose on no one on the other side.

"It is well understood there as well as here that the Republican leaders desire not so much to support the President as to control him. The peoples of the Allied countries with whom we are associated against Germany are quite familiar with the significance of elections. They would find it very difficult to believe that the voters of the United States had chosen to support their President by electing to the Congress a majority controlled by those who are not in fact in sympathy with the attitude and action of the Administration.

"I need not tell you, my fellow countrymen, that I am asking your support not for my own sake or for the sake of a political party, but for the sake of the Nation itself, in order that its inward unity of purpose may be evident to all the world. In ordinary times I would not feel at liberty to make such an appeal to you. In ordinary times divided councils can be endured without permanent hurt to the country. But these are not ordinary times. In these critical days it is your wish to sustain me with undivided minds I beg that you will say so in a way which it will not be possible to misunderstand either here at home or among our associates on the other side of the sea. I submit my difficulties and my hopes to you.

Back Up the President

Again President Wilson has shown that he knows the temper of the American People, and he has very clearly indicated in his reply to the German government just how peace can be had, and the kind of peace that we must have, and it seems that we are going to have peace.

Now is the time to back up the President in every way, to let the world know that, here in America, we feel the President is right; and there is no better way of doing this than by giving President Wilson a Congress that it is known will absolutely stand back of him and enact the laws that are not only necessary to bring about peace, but after the War is over will enact such laws as will place our Country in a position that the reconstruction can come, that our people be employed and prosperity assured.

Your Representative in Congress, Mr. Brodbeck, as you know stands back of the President now, as he has stood back of him at all times, and supported all the great measures that have been of such immense benefit to the Country and to You.

Mr. Brodbeck is not only on the job in Washington in Congress and taking up matters with the various departments of the Government, but is on the lookout for the individual interests of the residents of this Congressional District and for the boys "over there." He can do these things because of his having had the experience as a Member of Congress in the most trying times in our history, and knows what to do.

It is important now, it is to your interest, that on November 5th. you not only vote for Mr. Brodbeck, but that right now you tell your friends and neighbors why it is to their interest to vote for him; if ever there was a time it is now, when—"It doesn't pay to swap horses in the middle of the stream."

A Cross (X) marked in the square at the right of the word "NO," indicates a vote AGAINST the Amendment.

PROPOSED AMENDMENT TO THE CONSTITUTION NO. 1

Shall Section Four of Article Nine of the Constitution be Amended so as to read as follows?

Section 4. No debt shall be created by or on behalf of the State, except to supply casual deficiencies of revenue, repel invasion, suppress insurrection, defend the State in war, or to pay existing debt, and the debt created to supply deficiencies in revenue shall never exceed in the aggregate, at any one time, one million dollars; Provided, however, That the General Assembly, irrespective of any debt, may authorize the State to issue bonds to the amount of fifty millions of dollars, for the purpose of improving and rebuilding the highway, of the Commonwealth.

PROPOSED AMENDMENT TO THE CONSTITUTION NO. 2.

Shall Section Eight of Article Nine of the Constitution be Amended so as to read as follows?

Section 8. The debt of any county, city, borough, township, school district, or other municipality or incorporated district, except as provided herein, and in section fifteen of this article, shall nevertheless be a lien in favor of the taxable property therein, but the debt of the city of Philadelphia may be increased in such amount that the total city debt of said city shall not exceed ten percentum (10%) upon the assessed value of the taxable property or debt of the city of Philadelphia, or increase its amount, or increase its rate of interest, without the consent of the electors thereof at a public hearing and vote thereon, and the city of Philadelphia, at any time, there shall be excluded from the calculation and deduction from such debt so much of the debt of said city as shall be due to the city of Philadelphia in respect to any charter which shall be yielding to the said city an annual current net revenue. The amount of such deduction shall be ascertained by capitalizing the annual net revenue payable by said city for such property up to the time of such ascertainment. The method of determining such amount, so to be deducted, may be prescribed by the General Assembly. In incurrence of such debt, the city of Philadelphia shall be authorized to issue bonds, notes, or other negotiable securities, and until the expiration of one year after the completion of said work, and thereafter, until the expiration of one year after the completion of said work.

I also hereby make known and give notice that the places for holding the aforesaid election in the several wards, precincts, cities and townships within the county of Adams are as follows:

To vote a straight party ticket, mark a cross (X) in the square, in the first column, opposite the name of the party of your choice.

A cross mark in the square opposite the name of any candidate indicates a vote for that candidate.

If you desire to vote for a person whose name is not on the ballot, write or paste his name in the blank space provided for that purpose.

A cross (X) in the party square in the first column does not carry a vote for any Judge.

To vote for Judge mark a cross (X) opposite the name of the candidate desired.
